SHADOWS OF WAR ON BALKAN STATES

REVOLUTION IN BULGARIA REPORT KING BORIS JAILED

Terrorists Slain By Bulgarian Police—Slav Anger Aroused and Break Is Near, World War Started By Similar Incident.

The bomb that shattered the Sofia cathedral and killed 200 persons last week threatens to raise the same specter of a general war as did the shots that killed the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo.

Russia and Jugo-Slavia are starting to take drastic measures, in order to be ready for any emergency.

Latest developments in Sofia, it was reported, Thursday, include imprisonment of King Boris in the Royal palace, by order of General Lazareff, as a result of the king's demand that the Fascist Premier Tzankoff resign, to permit formation of a liberal government.

Advices reaching Sofia say the Soviet is mobilizing its troops in southern Ukraine, and already has concentrated 14 of the best Soviet divisions along the Roumanian frontier.

Dispatches from Italy report that the Greek army is mobilizing, apparently as a protest against the decision of the allied council of ambassadors granting to Bulgaria the right to increase its military forces by 7000 troops.

Jugoslavia is preparing a sharp note to Bulgaria demanding satisfaction for charges made by Bulgarian ministers that Jugoslavia is encouraging Bulgarian revolutionaries.

The Russians are said to have a new kind of deadly gas against which there is no protection.

Despite Russian denials, the Bulgarian government insists that the uprisings were instigated by Moscow and declare that the documents showing this are genuine.

Jugoslavia is accused of having permitted assassins to cross the border with Jugoslavian passports, just as in 1914 the assassins of the archduke were permitted to cross in Bosnia.

The Serbian Nationalist elements are reported to be eager for war against Bulgaria, while the country itself is torn by internal unrest.

Despite all denials, reports persist that Jugoslavia has mobilized heavy troop contingents along the Bulgarian border.

King Boris is reported to be in bitter conflict with the Zankoff Fascist government. The king wants to make concessions to dissatisfied elements and establish a liberal government on a broad parliamentary basis, while Zankoff opposes any change at this time.

The army is said to be with the king.

NOT ELIGIBLE TO BONUS

Men Drafted But Not Accepted Because of Physical Disability Cannot Get $60.

Washington, April 22.—Men who were drafted for service during the World war, but not accepted by the army because of physical disability, are not entitled to the $60 bonus granted by congress, Comptroller General McCarl ruled in a case brought by Ard B. Crutchfield of Raleigh, N. C.

The comptroller declared Crutchfield, who was discharged 24 days after induction, had not served with the meaning of the law.

FORDS IN ENGLAND

Manufacture Has Reached Quarter Million—British Labor is Employed.

The quarter million mark was reached Ford production in England at 12:27 p. m., Friday, April 17, when car number 250,000 left the final assembly line in the plant at Manchester according to a cablegram received by Edsel B. Ford from the English company.

This is a production record for the automobile industry in England and is significant also from the fact that cars manufactured in Manchester are absorbed in the British Isles.

All Ford cars made in England are built of approximately 90 per cent British materials. Further, the policy of the English company requires that British labor only be employed. And in accordance with this policy those parts not made in the Manchester plant are fabricated by other English industrial manufacturers. All cylinder blocks and many other parts are cast and machined in the plant at Cork, Ireland, which operates under the name of Henry Ford & Son, Ltd.

Popularity of the automobile in England, both as a passenger and commercial car, has been steadily increasing, registration figures as of January 1, showing a total of 778,211 motor vehicle units in Great Britain. Ford Motor Company Detroit, Michigan. 24April1w1.

"O. P.," once a ragged newsboy and then a real estate speculator, and his brother are backed by J. P. Morgan & Co., in the deal.

CIRCUS WILL BE NEXT WEEK IN COLUMBUS

The fourth annual Shrine circus of Aladdin temple, Columbus, Ohio, at the State fair grounds coliseum is expected to attract more than 1000 Shriners from out of town, many of them from Circleville. J. O. Cutler, chairman of Shrine clubs committee for the circus has announced. The circus will be held the week of April 27.

Fifty acts, including five headliners, or two more than heretofore, and 12 feature acts, a concert by the 80 piece Shrine band and drill by the Aladdin patrol of 60 crack drillmen, will make up the two hour and a half program to be given in two rings and a 40 by 50 foot platform. The Robinson elephants, led by Tillie, aged 109, will be the headliners in chief after an absence of a year and a public reception in the state house grounds will be held at which Tillie will be awarded a novel sort of key to the city.

"Poodles" Haneford with his famous riding act will be back, but the rest of the turns are almost all new to Columbus and constitute the greatest and most elaborate circus in Columbus history" according to John G. Robinson, veteran circus manager and expert Shrine show producer. The Six American Belfords, wonderful pyramiders, the Five Fearless flyers and Ray Thompson's fourteen high school horses are the other headliners.

Among the special features are Idaho Delno, balancer and contortionist, Erma Barlow's pony and dog the Five Avalons, the Aerial Youngs, the Great Swing, Del Ruth, Mardoe and Lester Bell Griffin, clowns and Kathryn and Carl Solt, trapeze performers. This year the Shrine at Columbus will entertain more than 2000 crippled and orphan children from institutions in the capital city and in ten surrounding counties. Old soldiers, World war vets, deaf and dumb pupils and several other groups, including 200 Catholic orphans, will also be guests at a matinee.

In the evening the oratorical contest will be held in a large Chautauqua tent which will supply comfortable seating for all attending at this time. Eleven of the county's high school orators will contest the honor which carries the right of acting as host at the 1926 meet.

INDICTMENTS EXPECTED IN LIQUOR CASES

Cleveland, April 24 (U.P.).—A wealthy Cleveland broker and a prominent Columbus politician formed the target of the Hayner whisky quizz today.

Federal indictments against both are anticipated, authorities declared. United States Attorney Bernstein denied the investigation would be dropped.

The broker and the politician are said to have wielded the influence which made the Hayner whisky "flood" possible, pouring hundreds of thousands of dollars into the pockets of the alleged conspirators.

The same influence is now being brought to bear on the government to prevent their indictment, Bernstein said, explaining reports that the investigation might be halted.

Tales of how fraudulent and illegal permits for the withdrawal of whisky from the Troy, Ohio, warehouse were being laid before the grand jurors this morning.

Woodfield, April 24.—Edna Mettore claims the Ohio Sunday school attendance championship. She hasn't missed a Sunday in 13 years.

SCHOOL BOYS WERE GUESTS OF ROTARIANS

Rev. Moses Breeze Was The Speaker and Ladies Served Excellent Dinner.

One of the most interesting and inspiring meetings in the history of the Rotary club was that held Thursday noon in the social rooms of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

There was a full attendance of Rotarians and each member had as his guest a boy from the schools, public and parochial of the county. Rev. Floyd E. Logee had charge of the entertainment and gave a statement of the principles for which Rotary stands, one of which is "service," and the motto of the club, "He profits most who serves best." In this connection he called attention to the fact that each boy in attendance had been selected because of some service he had rendered to his school.

Rev. Moses Breeze was the speaker of the day and in his usual, snappy way gave the boys a wonderful talk on the building of character. This was indeed a treat, not only to the guests, but to the hostesses as well, and the truths presented were given in such a way as are certain to result in much good.

A splendid dinner was served by the ladies of the church and the High School orchestra, under the direction of Professor Zanglein, furnished music. Preceding the dinner the boys joined with the members in singing the songs of Rotary.

WETS AND DRYs

There are wets and there are drys. There are those who bless our prohibition amendment and those who curse it.

No matter how you feel, however, statistics in the Canadian province of Quebec, where there is scarcely any restriction on the sale of the "cup that cheers," show a steady decrease in intemperance.

In 1923 there were about 265 convictions for drunkenness in each 100,000 of population in the province. In 1922 there were 300; in 1920, 525.

This may mean either of two things, according to the way you look at it:

That prohibition is not necessary to stamp out intemperance.

Unlearned Parliament

In 1404 at Coventry, England, a parliament convened by Henry IV was known variously as the parliament of dunces, the unlearned parliament and the lack-learning parliament. All lawyers were excluded, and the name was applied in derision, probably by lawyers.

Named by Norwegians

Centuries ago there was a great deal of traffic between Scotland and Scandinavia, and a curious survival is Sutherland, which though the most northern county of Scotland, was given its name as the "southland" of Norway!

Spring plowing has commenced. So also has your troubles. A few years ago a broken casting meant days of delay but now things are different.

I fix them while you wait. It is a common occurrence for valves to break in Ford tractors and push a hole thru the cylinder head. Instead of paying $14 for a new one, bring me the broken one and for $7 difference I will sell you a new one.

I fix anything in metal. Ask to see my automatic hog waterers.

Six Styles of Heels
Used on Women's Shoes

Whether it is due to vanity or not, there is no one thing that women shoppers are more concerned about when buying a pair of shoes than the heel. This perfectly feminine trait is not altogether to be scoffed at. Aside from the style and the curve that a neatly turned heel can give to a trim foot, it has a lot to do with the comfort and poise of the body, and, whether you are aware of it or not, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star, with the service you are going to get out of the shoe.

Heels either are cut out of wood and covered with material to match the rest of the shoe, or they are made out of leather substitutes, or of all leather. Leather heels are the most expensive, but when the one is made out of all leather, you may know that it will be absolutely satisfactory under all conditions. Sometimes leather substitutes or wood are used for half the heel, and the last three or four lifts are made of leather.

There are six styles which are seen most frequently in women's shoes. They are: French, Louis XV, Baby Louis, military, Cuban, common sense or flat heel.

The French heel is the highest heel made, differing from the Louis XV in that the latter is usually not so high and does not have so pronounced a curve. The French heel has a decided curve in the back and spreads out at the bottom to make a supporting area of about a square inch.

A Cuban heel differs from a French heel in that it has a back line which slopes gradually to the bottom, without the decided curve-in. It is lower than the French heel.

The military heel, having a straight back line, has a larger surface area than the Cuban. It is always lower than the Cuban.

A Baby Louis heel is similar in shape to a French heel, but is only one or one and one-half inches high.

Metal Brocades, Laces,
Are in Fashion Picture

Metal brocades carry on, although the newest weaves are lighter, more delicate in colors and softer in surface. Silk threads of many lovely shades, the pastels and all the evening colorings, are skillfully interwoven with silver or gold. Some are remarkably clever in blue, pink or green.

Among the lace costumes, now that lace is so much in vogue, are charming metal laces. Many of these are fine as cobwebs and bright as moonbeams, making the most enchanting frocks for the dance under sparkling lights. One of a large variety of evening gowns for a debutante is made of pale rose taffeta in the full-skirted period design, the petticoat trimmed with a deep flounce of silver lace. This is caught at the upper edge with silver, placed at intervals several inches apart.

A deep cape bertha of the lace, fastened at one side of the décolleté neck with a tight little nosegay of the roses finishes the bodice, and gives the last quaint touch to a perfect flower of a frock.

Pink Is Fashion's Favorite

A faint, delicate tone of pink, known as blossom pink, is chosen for many of the prettiest new frocks. In crepe de chine and voile for day and in chiffon or satin for evening, it appears again and again in the collection of advance fashions.

Scarf Easily Made

Human Ashes Weigh Little

Cremation is rapidly becoming a burial custom with many families who, a decade ago, were prejudiced against it. In the larger cities this is especially true. The ashes of a human body weigh about two pounds and a container equal in size to a two-quart measure is usually necessary to preserve the remains.

Calories

Scientists assert that the consumption of sugar tends to promote emotionalism, which may account for the condition of the young ladies who eat so many pounds of chocolates at matinees.

Pigeons as Telephones

With every outgoing tourist car that invades the little-known parts of the National park around the Grand Canyon of Colorado now go a pair of homing pigeons. They are the only feasible means of communication in an emergency, for there is no telephone or telegraph service in that part of the country.

Arizona

Authorities differ as to the meaning of the name "Arizona." Some say the name is derived from the Spanish words "arida zona," or arid zone. Others maintain that the word comes from "arizuma," meaning "silver-bearing."

Hog Sanitation System Spreads

Industry Undergoing One of Most Important Improvements to Stop Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the rapid expansion in the use of the system of swine sanitation, commonly known as the McLean county system, the swine industry is now undergoing one of the most important improvements in respect to disease prevention since the general adoption of the preventive treatment for hog cholera. Reports from various states in the Central West to the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that this plan, which has for its main object the prevention of the large losses from roundworms and various filth-borne diseases of young pigs, is being adopted at an increasing rate. Extension forces have been taking up the plan with energy and in many instances swine sanitation has been made one of the major projects for the coming year.

Campaign in Iowa.

In Iowa, one of the heaviest hog-producing areas, a campaign to extend over a ten-year period has been outlined with the idea ultimately of getting the system generally adopted throughout that state and thereby increasing efficiency in pork production. Nearly one-half the counties in Illinois are said to be included in the coming year's program of work to reduce the ravages of roundworms and filth-borne diseases of swine.

Two years ago Nebraska got eight or ten county agents interested in this work and they in turn brought the new system to the attention of many of the progressive hog raisers. Considerable advertising is done through the newspapers, the use of department films, and through the efforts of the department specialist who co-operated in giving talks on sanitation as a means of combating roundworms. In that state the work has been growing steadily and is continuing to increase every day.

The growing interest in this improved system of growing hogs is indicated to the Department of Agriculture by the frequency with which county agents are now mentioning it in their reports. In the statements covering the work for the past year this subject is mentioned by 350 county agents. This year at the International Live Stock exposition many of the club boys who showed pigs in the competition had raised them according to the McLean county system or had at least adopted the general principles of sanitation. There also has been a great demand for the department film dealing with this problem. The Missouri Agricultural college has recently ordered a third print of it. The states mentioned above are only a few of those in which great interest is being taken in the subject. The new plan is being used as far east as Ohio and as far west as Nebraska and the Dakotas and interest in it has been shown in various other parts of the United States.

Essentials of Plan.

For the benefit of those who are not yet acquainted with the essentials of this new plan it may be outlined briefly as follows:

The pigs are farrowed in pens that have been thoroughly cleaned with lye and boiling water, and supplied with clean bedding. The sows before being put in the clean pens for farrowing are scrubbed with soap and warm water to free them of dirt which may contain eggs of roundworms and other germs likely to be abundant in the soil of permanent hog lots. Later the sows and litter are hauled (not driven) to clean pasture, preferably legume pasture, which has not been used for hogs since cultivation. Until they are taken to pasture the sows and pigs are kept strictly in their clean quarters, and until the pigs are at least four months old they are kept on pasture entirely away from the permanent hog lot. Pigs started this way are protected from the danger of serious infection with worms and hog-lot diseases and get a strong advantage over those that must take their chances with the ever-present pests. Experience has shown that the practice pays big dividends and the expense is small.

An Illinois farmer, expressing his views as a result of experience with the new system, says: "Rather than go back to former methods, I would quit the business. The practice of the McLean county system at present prices means the difference between profit and loss to the hog raiser. The system gives the little pigs a fine start and keeps them coming in healthy, thrifty condition from the very first, which is most essential, as a poor start means a runty, unprofitable pig later on. Thus I have been able to market my six-months pigs at weights of from 200 to 270 pounds. Under the old system my hogs often did not reach this weight as yearlings. By marketing hogs at six months of age I have been able not only to sell on the high September and April markets, but also to raise twice as many pigs with the same amount of equipment, with the additional savings of six months' upkeep and care."

The United States Department of Agriculture has detailed information on this common-sense system of reducing worm losses on the hog farm of the corn belt. Hog raisers may have it free by writing the department at Washington.

WHY DO PEOPLE DIE?

No scientist, living or dead, has been able to explain why any person should die, except by accident or violence. They can see no reason for it, except that "it is appointed to every man once to die."

Scientists have discovered that from the moment a baby is born, the forces of life and of destruction begin to fight in the cells of its brain and body. Until maturity, the cells multiply rapidly and thus growth is accomplished. But even during this growing period, the germs of decay are busily at work.

It also has been discovered by scientists that cleanliness and sanitary living prolong individual and community life. This is not theory, but logical and sensible reasoning, demonstrated in practice. It should be generally understood by every man, woman and child.

A few immaculate homes in a fine residence district will not safeguard even that neighborhood from an epidemic. Smallpox may originate in an unsanitary home miles away, and sweep the city. A polluted water supply, or a stagnant pool in a vacant lot, may become the source of a typhoid epidemic.

Dust, dirt and filth breed disease. Disease hastens decay and death.

Let's banish these enemies of good health and long life. Let's work together for a cleaner and more sanitary city. This is the greatest and most important co-operative effort that we can make for reducing our mortality rate.

There can be nothing finer than the community spirit which demands that we clean up, paint up, and keep it up.

Circleville's Clean Up Campaign opens on May 4 and will continue throughout that week under the direction of the Board of Health.

The City will remove all rubbish (except ashes) when deposited either in front or to the rear of your property.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. MAN WHO THINKS.

The railroad yardman who thinks, is the man who becomes foreman; the foreman who thinks, is the man who becomes superintendent or manager. Thinking is the motive force behind all creation, all invention, all there is to art and literature.

The advantage of thinking does not lie in original ideas, nor in giving unique expression to words, but in exercising the brain.

The man who always thinks is thrice armed and able to solve the knottiest problems of all history.

If you form the habit of thinking things out for yourself, you will cultivate an independence of thought, a clear and exact purpose behind this thought, and make yourself felt as an influence wherever you go. A man who thinks always takes his stand apart from the crowd.

The progressive, refreshing man or woman has original ideas and courage to express them. They are not trailers nor do they think as someone else directs them. They develop their own individuality. The man who will honestly think is bound to become a leader of men—because so many of us depend upon his brain power.

CINCINNATI POLICEMEN SENTENCED

Finis has been written in the case of the Cincinnati policemen who were sentenced in the "graft" cases, so far as their connection with the Cincinnati police department is concerned.

Forty officers, who were convicted or plead guilty in the United States district court on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law in connection with graft charges, were dismissed by Safety Director Charles E. Tudor. Only six appeared before Tudor for a hearing. Four of them asserted that they had been "double-crossed" with a promise of "absolute immunity," but instead they were either fined or given jail sentences.

James J. Gambs, another of the convicted men, appeared at the government building expressly, he said, to convey his appreciation to U. S. District Attorney Haveth E. Mau and his assistants for the manner in which they conducted the case.

"You fellows were square right thru" said Gambs. "You played the game straight. I was guilty and I am ready to take my medicine." Gambs was sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary for a year and a day.

Seven officers whose cases were nolledd also appeared before Tudor. They declared they were innocent and six of them expressed a desire to remain on the police force. The seventh said he desired to retire to go into other employment. Tudor took the case of the six under advisement.

The 32 policemen and village "dry" agents who were given penitentiary sentences will be taken to Atlanta Monday night.

In the absence of Haveth E. Mau, U. S. district attorney, who was in Dayton, Harry Abrams, assistant district attorney, issued a statement denying the assertions of the police officers who appeared before the safety director that they had been promised immunity if they would enter pleas of guilty to the graft charges.

"There were no promises that I know of made to any of the indicted police or dry agents," Abrams said. "As to their statement that they were 'double-crossed' when either fined or given jail sentences, the sentences were meted out in each case solely on the facts presented to the court."

Popularity of Pear on Steady Increase

Pears are now a year-round fruit in the market and growing slowly in favor as a fresh fruit, while their popularity as a canned fruit for use in various desserts is increasing steadily. The pear has an interesting history, as it invaded the United States from the northeast and southwest corners of the country in the days of the early settlers, a bulletin of the American Pomological society says.

The colonies from England brought it here in prerevolutionary times, while the missionaries, moving from Mexico into California, took their pear trees with them, and pears were a popular fruit and sold to the "Bers" during the gold rush which opened California. These pears came from trees in the old mission gardens. These old trees grafted with modern European and American varieties gave California its first taste of the popular eastern varieties.

A single variety, the Bartlett, gave California four-fifths of its pear products.

The Kieffer pear originally was a seedling of the Chinese sand pear crossed, it is believed, with the Bartlett, by Peter Kieffer, a Pennsylvania nurseryman, and first exhibited at the centennial exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876. After these early beginnings a number of French varieties have come into popularity.

A peculiar feature of the pear is that many varieties are not self-fertile and require other trees near them to produce fruit. Both the Bartlett and Kieffer are in this class, although their self-sterility varies in different localities, in some of which a lone tree of either variety will not produce, or produce very sparingly.

The Bartlett came to us from Europe, where it is known as the Bon-chretien, literally translated good Christian.

Evolution of Trombone

The trombone, from the Italian "tromba," a trumpet, was formerly called the sackbut, and is a brass instrument, of uncertain invention and epoch, though it appears in a manuscript of the Ninth century, preserved at Boulogne, as a drawing bearing a great resemblance to the trombone of today without its bell.—Music World.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN FORECAST

Light Will Be Blotted Out by Moon From Most of the United States.

New Haven, Conn.—For a few minutes on the morning of January 24 next the moon will get between the earth and the sun and cut off all the light we get from that body. This eclipse will be visible in the United States, and it doubtless will be seen by more persons than have seen such an occurrence in the past, according to Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale university. An eclipse is not a rare event; one or two occur every year, but this one is notable for the fact that it occurs in a territory from which the light of the sun has not been wholly obscured by the moon within the memory of any one living.

"If we look over the records of past eclipses," Professor Brown said, "and the predictions for future eclipses we soon see that in any one place there will be a total eclipse of the sun only once in every few hundred years. The coming eclipse will produce darkness over a narrow band of territory which stretches from a point somewhat west of Duluth and, after crossing northern Michigan and Wisconsin, is seen in Connecticut and then passes out to sea. The hour of the phenomenon is between 9 and 9:30, eastern standard time."

There was an eclipse in 1919, visible in Brazil and central West Africa, and another last September seen by the people of California and northern Mexico.

Accurate Predictions.

The accuracy with which the time and position can be predicted for an eclipse is high. Professor Brown went on to say. The staff of the United States naval observatory at Washington is always at work calculating the positions of the heavenly bodies years in advance in order that the predictions may be useful. The northern and southern edges of the shadow band can be laid down within a mile. Hence, when the almanac predicts that the southern edge will cross the upper end of Central park in New York city, it is fairly certain that the shadow will not keep off the grass.

All this knowledge, however, is not a product of the present generation. It has been, slowly accumulating through many centuries. Most of it is due to the proof of the law of gravitation which was given by Isaac Newton toward the end of the Seventeenth century.

"But we have to pay our homage to observers for their industry much further back than that," the professor continued. "More than 2,500 years ago the Chaldeans were able to predict when eclipses would occur, because they had learned that there is a long series of them repeated in a little over eighteen years. It is remarkable that they should have been able to get this knowledge, because any eclipse does not cover quite the same part of the earth's surface as the corresponding one which occurred 18 years before. They must have kept records over at least a century, perhaps over many centuries, before the cycle was discovered.

"The eclipse will be seen by many millions of people. In the map which has been issued by the naval observatory, it is seen that the southern boundary of the band over which the sun will be totally eclipsed just covers Duluth, Minn.; Menominee, Mich.; Frankfort, Mich.; London, Ont.; Dunkirk, N. Y.; Wilkesbarre, Pa., and New York city north of Central park. Well inside the northern edge are Manistique, Mich.; Toronto, Ont.; Auburn, Hudson, N. Y.; New Bedford, Mass., while a mile or two outside are Syracuse, N. Y.; Springfield, Mass., and Providence, R. I.

Observers Busy.

"The observations which are to be made by the observatories within the region of totality are not yet fully known. Some of them will devote the brief two minutes during which the eclipse lasts to photographing that marvelous fringe of light which is never seen except at a total eclipse, and known as the corona. Others will try to get accurate positions of the moon and also photographs of it so that its size and shape shall be better known."

Professor Brown is chairman of a committee appointed by the American Astronomical society to inform the public concerning this eclipse.

Hats Off, Fellers!

The Honorable Mrs. Richard Norton, before sailing back home with the prince of Wales' party, paid a splendid compliment to American manhood.

"American men," she said at a Tuxedo luncheon, "are the handsomest men in the world. But that is nothing. They are the most moral men in the world, and that's everything."

"An American girl writer was telling me the other day how, to get material, she traveled in the wild West and worked in factories and mines, and lived in the slums."

"But aren't you afraid, I asked, 'to go about in this way unprotected?' 'Oh,' said she, 'I'm not unprotected. I never venture beyond the call of the American gentleman.'"

Argentine Love," an Allan Dwan production for Paramount with Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez featured, is the feature at the Met theater tonight.

The story is a screen original by Vicente Blasco Ibañez, adapted for the screen by John Russell. It opens in the Argentine where pretty Consuelo Garcia (Miss Daniels) has just returned after attending school in the states to find that according to all revered Spanish customs and traditions she is obliged to marry the wealthy young Juan Martin who, in return for financial assistance to the girl's parents, has asked for her hand in marriage.

Consuelo's parents explain that it was Martin's money that paid for her education Martin's money that paid for everything she owns. Now she must do her share. But the girl reneges confessing love for an American engineer whose work brought him to South America on the same boat which carried her home.

Here's the situation—two men in love with the same girl, both determined to have her. What happens? How Dwan does handle the situation!

There is drama in "Argentine Love" heart-interest, big scenes and what-not. For real, genuine entertainment qualities it has anything Ibanez has ever done before backed off the boards.

James Rennie plays the role of Philip Sears, the young American engineer. Mario Majeroni and Aurelio Cocca have prominent roles in the supporting cast which includes, among other big names, Riss Whitall, Alice Chapin, Julia Hurley and Mark Gonzales.

Naval Observatory to Send Expedition in 1926.

By ISABEL M. LEWIS.

(Of United States Naval Observatory.) Washington.—It is gratifying to American astronomers and others interested in the progress of science to know that the United States Naval observatory will carry on in the observation of total eclipses of the sun by sending an expedition to Sumatra to observe the total eclipse of January 14, 1926.

Through the unique opportunities that it possesses as a government institution under the control of the Navy department it is possible for the United States Naval observatory to advance the cause of astronomical science in some ways that are not within the reach of private institutions. This was evidenced in the sending forth of special time signals for the convenience of eclipse observers on the occasion of the last eclipse and in the observation of the eclipse from the navy dirigible, Los Angeles, by a group of scientists from the observatory under the lead of Capt. Edwin T. Pollock, superintendent of the Naval observatory.

An Augury for Success.

The interest shown by the present superintendent in promoting eclipse observations speaks well for the success of the eclipse expedition that will be sent forth from our national observatory before the year is over, the sixth since the year 1900. It is also in keeping with the traditions of the navy. Many astronomers of today recall the enthusiastic interest in the cause of astronomical research evidenced by Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, superintendent of the Naval observatory in 1905, who headed an expedition sent out by this observatory to Africa and Spain to observe the eclipse of August 30, 1905, when a special line squadron of three vessels was detailed by the Navy department for the observation of the eclipse and a special appropriation of $5,000 was granted by congress.

An interesting report of the results of the observation of this eclipse, by the way, and of the eclipse of June 8, 1918, as well as notes of aviators on the eclipse of September 10, 1923, are contained in the "Publications of the U. S. Naval Observatory," second series, volume X, part II, appendix, which has just recently come from the press.

There are some remarkably fine plates in this volume, photographs of corona and prominences, and drawings from negatives, in addition to the scientific discussion of the observations of these eclipses. The frontispiece is a reproduction in color of the painting of the corona of the eclipse of June 8, 1918, by the artist, Howard Russell Butler, who was a member of the Naval observatory eclipse expedition to Baker, Ore. There is also a reproduction in color of a painting by the same artist of the approach of the moon's shadow and of details in the structure of the prominences.

Earlier Eclipses Described.

An earlier volume of the "Publications of the U. S. Naval Observatory," published in 1905, dealt with results of the observations of the eclipses of May 28, 1900, and May 17, 1901, the former in North Carolina and Georgia and the latter in Sumatra. Both volumes are valuable contributions to the published records of eclipse observations. They will be followed by another volume dealing with the results of the observations of the eclipse of January 24, 1925, and January 14, 1926.

The eclipse of next January will be a fine one of four minutes' duration in the Indian ocean and over three minutes' duration in Sumatra, where it will occur in the afternoon. This eclipse will also be visible later in the afternoon and with shorter duration in Borneo and the island of Mindanao in the Philippines. It will occur on the east African coast near the equator shortly after sunrise.

If present plans are carried out there will be at least one other eclipse expedition sent out from the United States to observe this eclipse, the Sprout observatory expedition from Swarthmore college. This institution, whose department of astronomy is under the direction of Dr. John A. Miller, has been particularly active in observing recent eclipses. English, French and German observatories also are now planning to send expeditions.

Philippine Telephones

In Manila, capital of the Philippines, the use of the telephone is growing so rapidly that the company which operates the telephone system finds the automatic service with a capacity of 15,000 subscribers recently installed already outgrown. Therefore, plans are being made for enlargements of automatic service that will take four or five years to accomplish and which, when completed, will be adequate not only for Manila itself but also for its suburbs.

Ship Safety Device

A single turn of a wheel is sufficient to cause the bulkhead doors to close throughout a ship. This is the hydraulic system, and the electrical plan is also used. In the Stone-Lloyd system two duplex double-acting pumps work perpetually at two strokes per minute, but once let the water pressure be decreased from the bridge the governor automatically regulates the steam pressure and the powerful pumps shut the doors in 20 seconds.—Scientific American.

LOTUS SEED GROWS AFTER 400 YEARS

New York.—The legend that 3,000-year-old wheat from Egyptian tombs would sprout under proper conditions has been thoroughly exploded at the Thompson Institute for Botanical Research at Yonkers, but the oldest living things on earth, so far as is known, are now growing and flourishing in water tanks at this place.

Those most venerable of living things are lotuses. The seeds from which they are germinating are possibly 400 years old. They were excavated from the deeply covered bed of a lake which long since dried up near Darien, in Manchuria.

Under careful treatment the ancient lotus seeds put forth shoots and have finally grown round leaves, which float on the surface of the tanks. It will be two or three years, however, before they flower.

Their age is judged by the depth at which they were buried by the fine dust which had blown over them from the Gobi desert. Each year a thin film of silt is laid down over the region, and the different layers form a sort of calendar, which roughly dates the lotus seeds—the seeds of the Nelumbo nucifera, to use their scientific names. The calendar is not exact. According to one reading, it makes the lotus seeds not less than 120 years old, but it is said to be far more likely that they are between 200 and 400 years of age.

Hitherto certain peas and beans were thought to be the most long-lived of seeds. Some of them were known to have sprouted and grown to normal maturity after 80 years, and it was suspected that they might attain an age of 100 or 120. These were the oldest representatives of the vegetable kingdom.

Ages of 200 and 300 years have been claimed for tortoises. Birth certificates and other sure evidence are missing, but scientists who have investigated them allow them a century and a half or so, which does not break the human longevity record achieved by the late Tom Parr, who lived through six reigns and rounded out 152 years. Parrots, crocodiles and carp are other contenders for old-age titles.

The story that wheat from ancient Egyptian tombs would grow again is a myth of the most stubborn character, which has persisted in spite of plentiful evidence that wheat grains cannot live more than 25 years at the utmost.

Maya Culture Takes Rank With the Best

About two thousand years ago, writes S. G. Morley, in the Mentor Magazine, while the peoples of northwestern Europe were living in a state of utmost barbarism, there was slowly dawning in the New world the most brilliant civilization of ancient America—namely, the Maya of southern Mexico and northern Guatemala. From a cultural point of view the Maya were the Greeks of the New world. In many spheres of human activity these Maya excelled, almost beyond believing, in architecture, sculpture, and painting; in ceramics, stone and feather mosaics, and the lapidary art, in astronomy, history, and chronology. In this last-mentioned field their attainments were so remarkable that it may be claimed that no people of the Old world at that time—2,000 years ago—had worked out a system of chronology anywhere approaching that of the Maya, not only in accuracy of results, but also in simplicity of use.

This spectacular progress the Maya accomplished without man's two greatest aids to civilization in the Old world—namely, beasts of burden and tools of metal. When it is considered that they had no beasts of burden, no horses, asses, oxen, camels, or elephants to carry for them, nor tools of iron, bronze, copper, or tin to cut and hew and carve with, it may be ventured that, judged by what they had, they achieved more than any other people the world has ever known.

Turkish Sumptuary Laws

The Constantinople vilayet council was recently asked by the ministry of the interior to draw up a sumptuary law forbidding legal prodigality. A commission, which has worked hard on the project, has now devised a number of minute restrictions on the marriages of the well-to-do. Under the rules proposed a bridegroom will give his bride a ring not exceeding 20 Turkish pounds in value, about $10, and no other wedding present. As for the bride, she may not bring to her new household more than two dresses in all, and her contribution to the furnishings may be no more than for one room.

Weddings must pass off without nuptial banquets, only sweets and innocuous sirups being offered to the guests. The wedding procession must not parade more than five carriages or motor cars. As for banquets to celebrate the births of children, they also are forbidden.

These regulations, which have not yet been adopted, would have taken the wind out of a Stamboul Turk who, not very long ago, shocked the respectable street with a parade of 40 carriages and who opened 100 cases of champagne for his guests.

Responsible for Idea of "Unknown Soldier"

Perhaps no movement has ever appealed more strongly to the imagination of the world than the suggestion of bestowing honor on the dead who led for their country by paying homage to the "Unknown Soldier." Yet it was not till the American advertising clubs visited England this summer that the name of the man who conceived this great idea was made public. Rev. David Railton, vicar of Margate parish church, a modest parson, originated this now internationally adopted ceremony after he had officiated at the burial of so many unidentified dead on the battlefields of France. It took months of persistent hard work on his part to persuade the British government to adopt his idea, for officialdom never understands human nature or its needs. David Railton deserves a niche, too, in the temple of fame, though, his work done, he prefers to remain an unknown soldier.

SUPER-STATION

To Dedicate International Opening
Program To Marconi's Birthday.

Chicago, Ill., April 23.—The international inaugural program of Radio Super-Station WHT, which goes on the air from the Wrigley Building Saturday evening, April 25, will be dedicated to the birthday of Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, which falls on that date, it was announced today by George E. Carlson, General Manager of the station.

International opera stars, a half-dozen nationally known popular songsters, equally prominent stage and radio artists and members of the staff personnel of the twelve other Chicago radio stations will participate in the program which, preceded by a half-hour test, will open at 8:30 p. m., and last until dawn.

"April 25 was picked as the opening date of the station so that the inauguration might appropriately fall upon the birthday of Marconi," said Carlson. "Immediately following the benediction by Paul Rader, the evangelist, who will have charge of WHT Sunday programs, we will broadcast a congratulatory message to the famous Italian who made broadcasting possible."

Planes Need No Pilot

Certain residents of the south coast of England were much astonished recently when an air force flying machine fell into the ocean and the authorities showed no undue anxiety about the fate of the pilot who, it was assumed, was aboard. After a while the air force men calmly put out in a skiff and towed the fallen plane to shore. The secret then leaked out that the machine had been without a pilot and that the accident was brought about by the plane passing beyond the radius of the wireless controlling force.

It was then learned for the first time that the planes seen for many weeks past circling in the air over this territory had all been without pilots; the control was by radio from a shore station.

Word to the Wise

"I am in debt to the department of street railways to the extent of several hundred dollars," said the north side business man. "I am not usually afflicted with lapses of memory, but when I happened to meet a friend in the bank the other day, I stopped to talk a moment and then went on—leaving behind my bag containing the change I had obtained for Saturday. I boarded a Woodward avenue car and the first thing that caught my eye was the sign at the end of the car where the destination or name of the line usually appears. This said in red letters, 'Stop! Turn Back!'—a notice to the conductor to rewind the linen strip. In a flash came the picture of my bag beneath the desk at the bank. Believe me, I turned back. The bag was there—untouched."—Detroit News.

Variety of Food in China
Vegetables are used much more freely by the Chinese people than by the Americans. In addition to the common ones, such as potatoes, spinach, cabbage, radishes, and the like, many plants and weeds are eaten which are not usually considered as food in America. Thus radish leaves, shepherd's purses, bamboo sprouts and a large number of seaweeds are used as food.

Claims That Humanity Gains in Good Looks

One of the results of modern civilization is that men are growing more handsome. No lesser authority than the conservator of the Museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, in London, is responsible for this graceful compliment. He is supported in his assertion by the man who compiled photographic records of the nation's most famous men for the national photographic gallery. It appears that modern man does not use his jaws so much as his forebears and that the change in the bony framework of the face is making it narrower and more refined. The virile beauty of the square jaw has been the subject of song and story. More recently the movie sheik has been accepted as the high point of masculine "perfectability" in looks. Both displaced Jupiter, Ammon and Apollo. "Handsome-man" votes have never proved quite satisfactory. How, then, are we to tell whether or not men are becoming more handsome?

Was a Day Ahead

Much curiosity was aroused on a Saturday at Bucksport, Maine, about 9:30 o'clock in the morning by the ringing of the church bell of the Methodist church. Later, it was learned that the sexton had mistaken Saturday for Sunday, and, with the auditorium and vestry well warmed, was ringing the bell to call the worshipers to church.

HOW PHOTOS ARE SENT OVER SEAS BY RADIO

Scientists Develop Machinery and Technique for New Form of Telephotography.

New York.—How science has made it possible to transmit pictures or photographs across the Atlantic by radio makes an interesting story.

The recent test was under the auspices of the Radio Corporation of America, whose engineers developed the machinery and technique of this form of telephotography. From Mar in house, London, the picture impulses were sent across 220 miles of land wire to Carnarvon, Wales. At this point they were transformed into aerial signals, flashed across the ocean to the station at Riverhead, Long island, and there again "taken off the air" and transmitted over 70 miles of land wire to New York city.

The method of preparing the photograph for transmission, its transformation into electrical impulses, and back again on the receiving instrument to a picture is described as follows:

The picture is photographed on an ordinary camera film. This film is placed on the outside of a glass cylinder, inside which is a powerful incandescent lamp, the light from which is focused in a minute beam onto the film as the cylinder rotates. The variations of density in the film change the amount of light passing from the lamp and out through the film to an electric cell sensitive to light. This cell transforms the flickering light waves into electrical impulses of variations of potency equal to the variations of tone or density in the film.

The cell sends out these impulses in much the same form and manner as the regular dot and dash method of telegraphic messages. The signals or impulses pass through a series of vacuum tube amplifiers and modulators, whence they go out upon the land wires.

At the receiving station on Long island the signals are again amplified and sent over land lines to the New York laboratory. Here this unintelligible "code" carrying the photograph is unscrambled, giving each electrical impulse a part in reproducing the photograph. The picture is reproduced on a photographic film by means of a beam of light corresponding with that which operates the cell in the sending apparatus, and is also recorded upon a piece of paper.

In this last operation the paper is fastened on a cylinder turning in synchrony with the sending cylinder. Poised above this paper is a specially constructed fountain pen the action of which is regulated by an electro magnet. The electrically transmitted impulses acting upon this magnet cause the pen to mark the paper with dots of varying density corresponding with the length of each separate impulse. Hence a picture is produced which resembles a stippled engraving.

Immense Electric Sign

In Philadelphia an electric sign weighing 50 tons has been set up which requires a total of 4,000 electric lamps to illuminate it. The individual letters of the sign are 50 feet tall and the electricity it utilizes would supply all the artificial light needed by a town of 6,000 people.
